Last week, I had the privilege to be invited to visit the Tel Aviv University, where I met Profesor Liat Kishon-Rabin, Head of Health Professions, Tami Bar-Shalita Ph.D., Debbie Rand and Ayala Weinstain to learn about the Israeli advances on the field of autism and sensory processing. It was impressive to see their research and learn about their educational system. On the same trip I had the privilege to meet Professor Shula Parush and Aviva Yochman Ph.D, Head of Pediatric Studies School of Occupational Therapy of Hadassah and The Hebrew University of Jerusalem. I’m humbled by their enthusiasm on translating the My Feelings game into Hebrew. Looking forward to continue bringing joy, understanding and hope to kids around the world!

My special thanks goes to my dear friend Dr. Lucy Miller for introducing me to such amazing professionals!
THE STANLEY STEYER SCHOOL OF HEALTH PROFESSIONS