Join us to hear about Dr. Fields' journey.

Following a BSc in Neurobiological Chemistry from the University of Florida, she obtained her MD degree from the University of Miami School of Medicine. She then completed a residency in dermatology at the Stanford University School of Medicine and opened a private practice. A two-time unicorn, in the 90s she embarked on creating her own business, along with partner Katie Rodan. In 2018, Forbes listed her on its list of "America's Self-Made Women". Today, among many other activities, she serves on the Tel Aviv University Board of Governors.
